AZAROV'S

A low-angle, upward-looking view of a spiral staircase. The staircase is constructed with a light-colored, possibly plastered, wall and a metal railing with vertical balusters. The railing is dark, likely black or dark brown. The staircase leads up to a bright, rectangular opening at the top, which appears to be a window or a doorway. The lighting is warm and soft, creating a sense of depth and perspective. The word "AZAROV'S" is overlaid in the center of the image in a white, serif font.
